

Snowpiercer
Seolgunnyeolcha

✓ This movie is the latest from director 'Bong Joon-ho'. It's more of a Hollywood film than any of Bong's previous efforts but it ^{also} marks his ^{third} collaboration with Korean actor Song ^{Gang} Kang-ho. As he did in The Host, Song Gang-ho plays much more of a stock character, not requiring the nuanced performance required of him in Memory of Murder.

^{Famous} Big-name Hollywood actors such as Tilda Swinton and ^[font must be same] 'Chris Evans' star in this film as well. ^{and} And Bong does more with the language barrier than simply requiring his Korean actors to conform to an English screenplay. ^[Don't ask] What was disappointing about it? Well, they ^{could have} ~~coulda~~ done more with the ^[font must be same] OST. ^[Sentence fragment] Nothing special there. ^[Unnecessary] ~~In my opinion,~~ ^[unexplained acronym] the worst part was at the end of the movie, when all the snow melted! That was pretty ^{banal} hokey! Still, the treatment of a world after a climate catastrophe was more ori ginal than in "The Colony", ^{The day after tomorrow} ~~Tomorrow~~, ^[Don't use] ~~Interstellar~~, and so on. Although Bong had won awards both at ^{Korea} home and abroad before, ^{Snowpiercer} ~~Seolgunnyeolcha~~ was the first film for which he won at the Becksang Art Awards.
